Overview

GAARRC is an annual, professional meeting devoted to presentations by resident physicians from anesthesiology programs across the United States. This meeting provides a necessary and unique venue for anesthesiology resident physicians to share their work, learn the latest techniques and trends in the field and network with other residents and faculty members. It also provides a learning experience for faculty members translates into more comprehensive education for residents and judges. This learning experience for faculty members translates into more comprehensive education for residents and judges. GAARRC provides an ideal growth opportunity for residents who will be expected to contribute to scientific and educational advancements in the field.
